

ABOUT

woo·ster (noun)
A street in the Soho section of New York City

col·lec·tive (noun)
Of, relating to, characteristic of, or made by a number of people acting as a group: a collective decision.

The Wooster Collective was founded in 2001. This site is dedicated to showcasing and celebrating ephemeral art placed on streets in cities around the world.

AFFILIATIONS

STREETSY

EMAIL

Send pictures and tips:
woostercollective@gmail.com

ARCHIVES

By date

CATEGORIES

By Category

SEARCH, RSS, ETC...

Search

RSS (What is RSS?)

MY YAHOO!

newsgator

SUB BLOGLINES

Powered by Movable Type

Site Meter

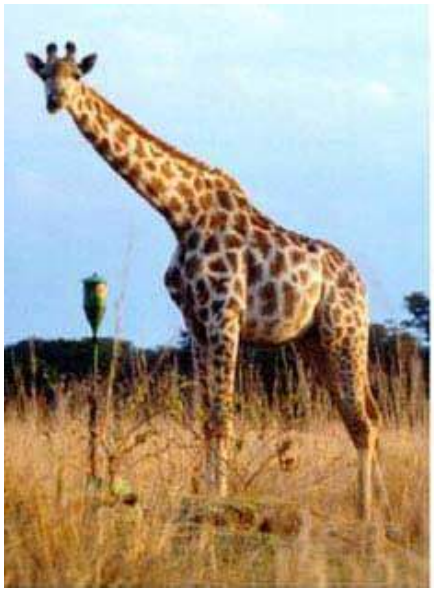

February 27, 2006

"Wooster's How To..." #4 - Mark Jenkins' How to Make a Plastic Bag Eating Giraffe

Plastic bags that fly around in the wind are a lot of fun to watch but once they become lodged in tree branches, they don't do much. With this in mind, I made some tape giraffes to eat this debris. Following is a "how to" for making one of these city-friendly animals.

1. Get a giraffe

or

2. Wrap the giraffe in clingfilm

3.Tape over it with packing tape and interbed plastic strips for added support

4. Release giraffe cast using a pair of scissors or razor knife.

5. Tape back together.

Note: Depending on how tall the trees are in your city lengthen neck accordingly.

Kids pet too:

Posted by marc at 10:42 PM in How To... |

- **[+]
  - add to del.icio.us
  - add to digg
  - add to yahoo
  - related at technorati
  - email this entry

Send this story to a friend

To (email):

From (email):

Message:
Message (optional):

Send